Professional Baseball Athletic Trainers Meeting Indianapolis, IN

The PBATS meeting was a great place to launch the ThermoActive Hot/Cold Compression Therapy supports by PolyGel into Major League Baseball.

John Miller from Icon Medical did a ten minute PowerPoint presentation for all of the athletic trainers pointing out the highlights of the products. Following his PowerPoint presentation the athletic trainers from all of the teams met with John and Michael Banks from PolyGel and were given a personal demonstration.

Most of the athletic trainers were fit with various supports and they were excited about the many positive aspects of the supports. The ability to use these products for hot and cold along with the circumferential pressure that it applies was a grand slam with the athletic trainers. The ease of donning the supports was also an important feature.

The support from the athletic trainers and their eagerness to bring the ThermoActive products into Spring Training camps is exciting for Icon Medical as well as the manufacturer PolyGel. We will continue to work closely with the professional athletic trainers in baseball as well as other sports as we continue to further develop our products and add additional sizes to fit some of the larger athletes.

What do you like about ThermoActive?

It's very easy to use. Our patients and our staff say it's so easy to apply. The fact that it offers both hot and cold and compression are unique features.

How is your practice using it?

We primarily use the cold therapy. We've found that it is particularly effective when treating patients during electrical stimulation therapy. We use the "ThermoActive products are a great asset to our practice. We've found by using them, as opposed to a knee immobilizer and bags of ice, it greatly enhances the patient's level of care.

I like to provide the patient with a barrier for their skin with either hot or cold therapy. I usually give them several lengths of stockinette that they can hand wash and hang up to dry."

PolyGel® is a global leader in the manufacturing and marketing of orthopedic, skin care, and healthcare products. The company began 20 years ago when we introduced the world to new medical and skin care gel products and technologies. Today, our gel-based products are offered world-wide.

As a leader in research and development, we are especially proud that many of our recent innovations are not only superior in quality, but are also environmentally and eco-friendly.

ThermoActive over the electrical stim pads and it not only makes for better contact, patients say it makes them more comfortable.

How is ThermoActive better than other Cold or Hot Therapy products?

Other products just don't conform to body parts the way that ThermoActive does. It saves our practice time - makes us more efficient and effective.

Any tips for other ThermoActive users?

We have a very busy practice so to save time, although the shoulder product is interchangeable prior to use, we set up and mark right and left shoulder products. It saves the therapists time when they're applying the shoulder product.
